The GRAFFITI FOR THE SOUL Series

From a collection amassed over many years, The GRAFFITI FOR THE SOUL Series is a wonderful assortment of some of the most unpredictable, freaky, ridiculous, outrageous, and inspirational graffiti that has appeared on building walls, subways, bridges, and public washrooms. The subject matters are as varied as the workplace, the sexual, the metaphysical, the literary, the political, the religious, and the educational.

The GRAFFITI FOR THE SOUL Series (there are seven e-books) by Ernie J. Zelinski is a fascinating look at other people's thoughts, a great collection of amusing, unique humor, and passionate opinion.

The seven volumes from The GRAFFITI FOR THE SOUL Series are available on the The Real Success Resource Center Website at: www.Real-Success.ca.

INTRODUCTION TO THE SERIES

Graffiti is Italian for “scratchings.” The origin of the word graffiti is the Greek graphein, meaning “to write.” Evidence of graffiti or scratchings goes back to early Roman and Greek times.

Modern graffiti takes many forms and offers some interesting social insights, some of which are instantly clear. I can't always figure out a lot of graffiti, however. For example, on the side of a building on the trendiest street in my home town of Edmonton, Alberta, the following is written in bold letters: “DE-ELECT THE JUG-EARED BAFFOON.” (I suspect this is directed at the mayor of the city or the premier of Alberta).

Then there is the famous slogan found at Nantence in Paris in 1968: “Je suis Marxiste — tendance Grocho.” I had seen this graffiti in several books and had a pretty good idea of what it meant. It wasn't until I was working on this book, however, that I learned from another source that it actually means “I am Marxist of the Groucho tendency.”

One of the interesting aspects of any graffiti is who wrote it and why. Who are these unknown wise people? To be sure, some graffiti is not original. It has appeared somewhere else and the graffiti writer has written it in a new place. Graffiti may be an original or modified quotation from an obscure or famous author. For example: “It's alright MA I'm only bleedin” is written on the side of a building on Spadina Avenue in Toronto. This is a line from a song by Bob Dylan. Many of the graffiti scribblers seem to be in tune with the French proverb: “If they haven't heard of it before, it's original.”

This book is a compilation of witty, humorous, inspiring, serious, or just plain ridiculous graffiti. I developed the collection from a notebook of graffiti I have been keeping for over two decades. I started collecting graffiti for a book I was writing on creativity. Many people find that the only place they get to be creative is in writing graffiti anonymously on some alley wall or in a public washroom. To illustrate how a lot of graffiti is truly creative, I first included four pages of it in my book The Joy of Thinking Big: Becoming a Genius in No Time Flat.

An attempt has been made to present each piece of graffiti in the style it was written. Some items will have incorrect spelling, poor grammar, or wrong punctuation. I have not cited the places where I or my sources first spotted the graffiti. Some graffiti I have personally seen on buildings and in washroom walls. Other graffiti I have seen in books. It would be daunting, even impossible, to determine the origins of the graffiti reproduced here.

A number of people have contributed graffiti which they found humorous or interesting. These contributors have been both men and women. A few of the items people have remembered and reconstructed from more than twenty years ago. Most items are from the recent past.

I have divided the material into six categories and seven volumes: graffiti in the workplace, general graffiti (presented, in two volumes) graffiti in women's washrooms, graffiti in men's washrooms, graffiti at universities and colleges, and the gems. The gems are my favorites, which are in the GRAFFITI FOR THE CONNOISSEUR'S SOUL volume.

Do I write graffiti? Yes, in fact, I have created more than 100 of the approximately 800 items in the series. For example, not so long ago I wrote "I Just Want To Be Me — Signed Anonymous" in the men's washroom of the Bistro Praha restaurant in my home town. A month later, I checked to see if it was still there. It was; someone had added “Sammy Davis Jr.?” Sometime later, someone else added “Why?” After revealing this here, I hope the owner of one of my favorite restaurants allows me back.

This series is titled GRAFFITI FOR THE SOUL because I believe that humor is important for the human soul. While the majority of the graffiti contained in the seven volumes was chosen for its wit or humor, some items also have an inspiring or serious message.

As one graffiti writer pronounced, “Since writing on lavatory walls is done neither for personal acclaim nor financial reward it must be the purest form of art.” I hope that in some special way this book entertains you. Moreover, I hope it motivates you to send me the most humorous, ridiculous, or inspiring piece of graffiti you have ever read. My address is at the back of each volume.

Volume 1

GRAFFITI FOR THE ENLIGHTENED SOUL

“Geography is everywhere,” says one piece of graffiti. Graffiti seems to be everywhere as well. This section includes graffiti found in public places such as walls in back alleys, front walls of businesses, fences beside roads, public washrooms, and even on vehicles. Occasionally I have indicated where the graffiti was written if the place has some significance to the item.

Throughout the seven volumes you will find graffiti in the “... Rules OK” form. This style apparently originated in Europe during the 1970s when OK was added to political slogans such as “Provo Rules” referring to the Provisional IRA in Northern Ireland. Over time, this form worked its way into North American and was incorporated into more humorous slogans such as “Astigmatism Rules, OK!” (written in letters four feet tall.)

KILROY WAS NOT HERE!

The above figure is an example of the mysterious “Clem” who originated in Britain and has appeared in thousands of washrooms across many nations. He has been mistaken for the legendary “Kilroy Was Here” which originated in United States and has also had great washroom presence.

Over the years Kilroy's name has been combined with Clem's picture in North American washrooms. Most North Americans think Clem is Kilroy. Not so. Clem is Clem and Kilroy is Kilroy.
